

Business doesn't come with a script.

Hands-on improv workshops, team building and communication training. Your people learn to listen better, adapt faster and collaborate under pressure. And they'll actually enjoy it.

Recognized corporate trainer and business mentor since 1989. Author of The Improv Edge and Blank to Brilliant · Founder of The Outcasters Improv Training Center

Three ways to bring the Improv Edge to your team.

Conference sessions

Breakouts and ice-breakers for conferences, offsites and summits. A short intro, then the whole room is up, involved and connecting.

Best for: meeting planners and event organizers.

Team building

Built around your team's real challenges: communication, trust and collaboration. Nobody is pushed to perform.

Best for: teams that need to work together better.

Influential Interactions

Joe's improv-based communication training program: six skills people use in their very next meeting.

Best for: leaders, managers, sales and client-facing teams.

What your people walk away with. No improv experience needed. Nobody has to be funny.

- 1 Listen better
Be present instead of planning your reply.
- 2 Communicate clearly
Express ideas with confidence and impact.
- 3 Collaborate effectively
Build on ideas instead of shutting them down.
- 4 Adapt quickly
Stay effective when circumstances change.
- 5 Think creatively
Find options when the obvious isn't enough.
- 6 Lead with confidence
Stay composed and responsive under pressure.

"It was one of the most raved-about experiences we've ever presented... It will change the landscape of how you do business. They're the best!"

Suzanne Evans · Driven Inc., Carrboro, North Carolina

"Joe and his team provided a very fun and impactful experience for our executive team. I immediately saw everyone highly engaged in the art of improv and the perspective it brings to us as leaders.

Lamont Yoder, CEO · Banner Baywood, Gateway and Heart Hospitals and Banner MD Anderson Cancer Center
